Till ready

My poor old Un-cle's gone right dead,
When we get to Un-cle's farm I say

And this is how his last will read: All my rich pos-ses-sions I do leave To my All the whole world will go right gay; All the lit-tle hens I bet by heck Will be neph - ew, Ar - chie Brown. My hon-ey bunch gee I feel gay; laying eggs in rag - time. Winter time or summer time will be all the same to me.

Come, let us while the hours a - way Spending Uncle's for-tune, for I say We'll be quite as happy as the birds upon the tree When we are to-gether, you and me,

When you're Mrs. Brown. Twen - ty thou-sand dol - lars, dear, will then be - long to And you're Mrs. Brown—

Chorus:—2nd time f.

you — Two fond eyes, Two lov - ing arms, And a heart so fond and true.

All the lit-tle ducks and drakes that quack on Uncle's farm— Ev-en Uncle's donkey that you never can a-larm— And twen - ty thou - sand dol - lars, dear, will then be - long to you
